Pediatric Infectious Disease Faculty Member
Pediatric Infectious Disease, Department of Pediatrics
Emory University School of Medicine and Children’s Healthcare of Atlanta

The Division of Pediatric Infectious Disease at Emory University School of Medicine and Children’s Healthcare of Atlanta are seeking a candidate to join our clinical faculty. The faculty member will contribute to the clinical, research, and teaching missions of the Division of Pediatric Infectious Diseases, Department of Pediatrics, and Children’s Healthcare of Atlanta. The primary responsibility of the candidate will be attending physician coverage of the inpatient and outpatient clinical services. Opportunities for involvement in inpatient and outpatient antimicrobial stewardship and transplant/immunocompromised patient care activities are available. Qualified candidates must have an MD, MD/PhD, or equivalent and must be pediatric infectious disease board eligible/ board certified. Salary and professional level of appointment will be commensurate with experience. Projected start date is 1 July 2020.

The Emory Division of Pediatric Infectious Diseases http://www.pediatrics.emory.edu/divisions/infectiousdisease/index.html is a dynamic group of clinical, translational, and research faculty, staff, and trainees whose vision is to translate knowledge into care by reducing the impact of infectious diseases, giving every child the opportunity to thrive.

Candidates are invited to send a letter of application and curriculum vitae via email to:

Andi L. Shane, MD, MPH, MSc
Associate Professor of Pediatrics and Interim Division Chief
Division of Pediatric Infectious Disease
Marcus Professor of Hospital Epidemiology and Infection Control
Emory University School of Medicine and Children’s Healthcare of Atlanta
ashane@emory.edu